

Royal College of Physicians

Professor Chloe Orkin Biography

Professor Chloe Orkin is Chair of the British HIV Association and Consultant Physician at the Royal London Hospital where her clinical duties include leading a busy HIV and HIV/ HCV clinical trials unit. Her specialist interests are: Anti-retroviral therapy, hepatitis co-infection and oncology. She has co-authored four British HIV Association guidelines on: Anti-retroviral therapy, Hepatitis, Malignancy and Routine Monitoring. Professor Orkin is the External Examiner for the Diploma in HIV Medicine on behalf of the Specialist Advisory Committee (RCP). She is actively researching ways of implementing HIV and blood-borne virus testing.

Presentation Summary

Significant advances in the treatment and prevention of HIV have resulted in a near-normal life expectancy for people living with HIV and the need to manage comorbidity and focus on mixed methods of HIV prevention. This talk will explore these concepts as they apply to the practice of the general physician.